I think I know that some of you will say that some code in my example must be wrong and point to some "No" button that is shorter or simpler. There is a little bit short and simple "No" button at the bottom of this page: What is it code? How does it work? Where can I find the description of that button to learn something about it? Is it the same button that is in this button: A: That button is made with a transparent div with a background image which hides the content of the original answer. It is styled according to its position in the answer list. You can find it in style.css. /questions/5048768/ on the other hand does not add an extra div to the content, but collapses the whole post in a one-line view. "=========================
