Q: Add to the table without changing the original file I have a very large table (about 100 million rows) in MySQL and I'd like to create a new column to add some more info to it. However I don't want to alter the file because of the amount of rows in it. I'm wondering is there a way to add the column without altering the file? A: SHOW COLUMNS FROM tablename WHERE column_name = 'desiredcolumnname'; Replace "tablename" with your table name and "desiredcolumnname" with your new column name. Then query MySQL to list all column names, then modify the one you want.
